★The Daisy Theater (closes on Saturday) The Obie Award-winning Canadian puppeteer Ronnie Burkett has described it as “the stupidest show I’ve ever created,” but disregard that. Structured like a variety show for grown-ups, with a profusion of blue humor and a rotating cast of marionettes, it’s lightheartedly silly, sometimes deliriously so. Shaped by the whims of audience and puppet master, the performance changes every night (runtime varies: 1:30 to 2:00). Baryshnikov Arts Center, 450 West 37th Street, Manhattan, 866-811-4111, bacnyc.org. (Collins-Hughes)
